User Accounts and License Seats.

You must create an account with X12 to use Glass. To do so, you must submit all of the information required on the Glass account creation page on the Site and create a password. It is your responsibility to obtain and maintain all equipment and services needed for you to access and use Glass. It is also your responsibility to maintain the confidentiality of your password(s). Unless expressly permitted in writing by X12, you may not sell, rent, lease, share, or provide access to your Glass account or any Material made available via Glass to anyone else. Should you believe your password or security for the Glass account has been breached in any way, you must immediately notify us.

If the entity with which you are associated has purchased a separate license to access and use X12 content, that entity may have received a specified number of license seats to access Glass. Your entity's account administrator, subject to the restriction on the type of seats purchased, may assign those seats to users and may reassign seats when the user originally assigned to the seat no longer works for the entity or will otherwise no longer use Glass. For avoidance of doubt, once a user's seat has been reassigned, that user may no longer access or use Glass or the Materials available via Glass until an additional seat has been purchased for that user. Your account administrator shall be responsible for overseeing the account.

Limited Licenses.

Subject to your compliance with these Glass Terms and the Website Terms of Use, X12 grants you a limited, non-exclusive, revocable, non-transferable, non-sublicensable, personal license to access Glass online through your account user name and password solely for your individual, internal business use. Certain Materials accessible with Glass are free to use ("Free Materials"). Subject to your compliance with these Glass Terms and the Website Terms of Use, X12 grants you a limited, non-exclusive, revocable, non-transferable, non-sublicensable, personal license to access and display the Free Materials online, via Glass, for your internal business use. Other Materials accessible via Glass require a separate license ("Paid Materials"). Your rights to access and use such Paid Materials, if any, are set forth in the separate license agreement you or your entity has purchased for those Materials.

X12 reserves all rights not expressly granted under these Glass Terms. Without limiting the foregoing, with respect to your Glass use and the Free Materials and/or Paid Materials described above, you shall not, except as expressly permitted herein or in your separate license agreement: (a) sublicense, lease, sell, transfer or assign any of the rights licensed to you, (b) copy, display, distribute, modify, alter or create derivative works of such Materials or any part of such Materials in any format for any purpose, (c) modify, alter or create derivative works of Glass, (d) use any such Materials or the content thereof in any manner that may give a false or misleading impression or statement as to X12, X12's licensors, or any third party referenced in the Materials, (e) use such Materials, any reproductions thereof, or any portion thereof in connection with any artificial intelligence or machine learning tool, including as (i) inputs or prompts to, or to otherwise ground or influence, a machine learning or artificial intelligence tool or outputs therefrom or (ii) to train, fine-tune, or otherwise modify the weights, algorithms, or other parameters of any artificial intelligence model, (f) reproduce, transmit, display, distribute, "frame" or "mirror" Glass or any Materials to any person or on any other server or website, (g) remove or obscure the copyright notice or other notices contained in the Materials, or (h) print and/or save any Materials (whether by screen scrapping, screen shots, screen print, electronically or otherwise).

Without limiting X12's rights and remedies at law or in equity, X12 may suspend and/or terminate your access to Glass at any time in the event that you fail to comply with these Glass Terms, including without limitation the failure to pay applicable fees. The Material accessible via Glass may be changed, updated or removed by X12 without notice.
